

Subject: Re: What was and wasn't sent to the list

From: Susan Doctrow <srdoctrow@gmail.com>

Date: 5/14/12, 15:40

To: Rich Carreiro <rlcarr@gmail.com>

CC: Stephen Harrington <sth.alist@gmail.com>

Thanks,, Rich. I am relieved and will try to be more strict about the "handout/announcement" issue in the future. I had seen a few emails that looked to me like discussions this year (one today, though maybe the sender will be providing copies at TM), so I thought that maybe the policy had been relaxed. (Not that it should - I think it is more fair to all TMMs this way).

Stephen, glad to discuss this elsewhere and, again, I apologize for accidentally sending out your private email..it was a completely sloppy oversight..

On May 14, 2012, at 3:08 PM, Rich Carreiro wrote:

Just for the record, Ms. Doctrow's original reply to Mr. Harrington's post was not distributed to the list, as it failed to meet the "announcement or handout" test. Mr. Harrington saw Ms. Doctrow's reply because Ms. Doctrow cc'd it to both the list and to Mr. Harrington.

Ms. Doctrow's second reply also was not distributed to the list for the same reason (and of course because it referred to something the list hadn't seen in the first place). And if Mr. Harrington's reply to Ms. Doctrow's first reply had been sent to the list (which it was not), it would not have been distributed for the same reason.

--

Rich Carreiro

rlcarr@gmail.com